

INOKS Capital is a new signatory of the Operating Principles of Impact Management (the “Principles”)

Geneva, October 8th, 2019

As signatory of the Operating Principles of Impact Management, INOKS Capital belongs to the first 75 adopters of the Principles.

From its very early days in 2006, INOKS Capital has been committed to its own impact journey while also early adopting best practices in the field of ESG/SRI, such as the UNPRI principles since 2010.

By design INOKS Capital's impact strategy is organically twofold whereby we

- ✓ impact invest in companies that contribute to solutions in four impact themes (poverty alleviation, food security, environmental quality and women empowerment) translating into six Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs #1, 2, 5, 8, 12 and 13) and
- ✓ invest responsibly by selecting those companies which mitigate the environmental and social risks of their economic activity by adhering to international standards (IFC Performance Standards).

Despite the growth in the impact investing market over recent years, the lack of a common standard for what constitutes impact may have confused investors. In response, IFC led the initiative to create a framework for impact investing made of eight principles. The Principles focus on ensuring that impact considerations are purposefully integrated throughout the investment lifecycle.

INOKS Capital has over the years constantly refined its impact process. Our current impact management system, in line with the Impact Principles, has been recently formalised into an Impact Framework developed in collaboration with Steward Redqueen.
